Outcome Based Education

Good teachers want good learning to occur as a result of their teaching. Good learning means, besides recalling information, acquiring the ability of problem solving, and critical and creative thinking. Students learn well when

- they are provided information about the course outcomes (what the students should be able to do at the end of the course), their responsibilities, and the criteria used to evaluate their performance
- the assessment is in alignment with the stated outcomes
- instructional activities are designed and conducted to facilitate them to acquire the stated outcomes and they are actively engaged and challenged at the right level

A course in a General Higher Education program in India needs to be designed and conducted to facilitate the students to meet the identified Course Outcomes. The Course Outcomes address a subset of Program Outcomes identified by the University or the Autonomous Institute that offers the Program. Also, the Course Outcomes address Program Specific Outcomes identified by the Branch/Department. The three-day workshop aims at facilitating the participants to write Course Outcomes of courses of their choice and Program Specific Outcomes in OBE-CBCS of UGC and NAAC Accreditation frameworks.

The workshop will be dominantly activity oriented and will make use of some simple IT tools.

Workshop Outcomes

- WO1. Understand what Outcome Based Education is and choose Program Outcomes
- WO2. Understand the Anderson-Bloom taxonomy of learning
- WO3. Write Program Specific Outcomes (PSOs) for a general undergraduate program
- WO4. Write Course Outcomes (COs) for a general course to meet the selected subset of Program Outcomes and Program Specific Outcomes.
- WO5. Question setting in tune with OBE and Taxonomy of Learning
- WO6. Compute the attainment of COs, PSOs and POs
