	WHAT IS THE COURSE
	Certificate programs often offer an alternative learning experience for people who want to master a skill or land a job that requires certification. This is a certificate that requires course work and testing to be completed on subjects relevant to journalism, writing and communications. Apart from teaching the theories of Reporting and Editing, our Print Journalism students produce Lab Journals that is newspaper making as practical work and learn cutting-edge technologies, presentation formats and professional skills. Students work in a newsroom environment with the pace, and pressure of real-world print journalists experience. They dig for stories and are rewarded for taking initiative, while introducing them to industry-standard software and hardware.
