PHOTO STORY

Photopeedika is on its continuous process towards hosting a photo story on a frequent basis on the college website, in order to encourage the members to have an aesthetic approach towards photography. As part of this, we had selected a couple of best photos based on definite themes, captured by the members of Photopeedika.

Have you ever experienced subtle emotions in close proximity? Well, all lives in the universe have fluctuating emotions and they are best sensed when you look into them through a narrow frame.

Flowers bloom not just to spread the fragrance, but also to remind us about how beautiful is the wait for any life to bloom and also how short life can be a journey to witness.

Evolution is natural, not so normal. Humans have been immersed in umpteen researches regarding how and why the universe has been evolving and progressing in varying patterns. Alas! now even the sculptures are worried about our derailed thoughts and thoughtless activities.

There are moments in life where we and our moments can go colourless and formless. But, in all ways, it is an awesome fact that life can splash its beauties across even the darkest colours. Let us celebrate the colours of light and life alike.

Sometimes, our greatest failure lies in the lack of proper observations and understanding that many of us are filled with negative thoughts and emotions more than what we can actually process. Yes, let us never be the overflowing glasses of water. Let us be open to be half-filled always and the rest left for virtue and love.
